

Full Name:
Email:
Phone Number:
Provider:

QUIZ

ET2: Nurturing and Responsive Relationships

Multiple Choice

1. The foundation of quality care is...
  - a. A state of the art facility with brand new equipment and toys.
  - b. Positive relationships between children, parents, and child care providers.
  - c. Health and safety.
  - d. School readiness.

2. Children are more likely to experience success in early childhood settings and in elementary school when...
  - a. Early academic skills such as the alphabet and counting are taught.
  - b. Parents defer to teachers to prepare children for school.
  - c. They have the skills to make friends, join play, and follow directions.
  - d. Exposure to screen time is minimal.

3. The pyramid model for supporting children in early childhood settings...
  - a. Is founded on evidence based practices.
  - b. Is a method for identifying children who should be excluded for behavior issues.
  - c. Is a theory developed by IdahoSTARS
  - d. Doesn't work.

4. Child care providers can use _____ for building and keeping positive teacher-child relationships.
  - a. Outside resources
  - b. Intentional strategies
  - c. Intensive Interventions
  - d. Developmentally Appropriate Practice (DAP)

5. Strategies for building relationships should be...
  - a. The same for all children.
  - b. Adapted to each child and family's cultural, language, and individual needs.
  - c. Based on opinion.
  - d. Ignored.

6. Opportunities for building relationships...
  - a. Are scheduled at specific times of the day.
  - b. Need to be the same for each child in order to be fair.
  - c. Are only important among peer relationships.
  - d. Can be embedded throughout the day, within daily routines.

7. Opportunities for one-on-one time with each child
  - a. Can be brief and intentional, embedded in the daily routine.
  - b. Are unrealistic in the child care setting.
  - c. Are not a recommended practice.
  - d. Only need to occur with preschool age children.

True or False

8. Warm, responsive physical contact such as hugs and holding hands is inappropriate in the child care setting.
True
False

9. According to the Center for Social Emotional Foundations for Early Learning "In early childhood settings, each moment that teachers and children interact with one another is an opportunity to develop positive relationships."
True
False

10. Child care providers should adapt strategies to be culturally and linguistically responsive for responsive for building relationships with children and families.
True
False